Oil Station Among New Mokena Business Enterprises

Within the last few weeks several new businesses have sprung up in and about Mokena. Mrs. Florence Hamilton has opened a new lingerie and hat shop in the former drug store building. The A. & P. Tea Co., are preparing to open a new store in the Walter Fisher building. E. R. Muehler, brother of Martin Muehler, the local meat market dealer, has opened a shoe shop in the latters building.

Peter Michelsen who recently located on the former R. O. Wilson place south of town which he purchased from J. R. Robertson of Midlothian, is planning on putting up a modern oil filling station and ice cream parlor and lunch room at the four corners south of Mokena on the site of the Schenkel home stead, the old building which was a land mark of this section, has been torn down within the past few weeks. It is understood that a new butcher is also seeking a location in Mokena. The old town is showing a boom spirit all of a sudden.

Aug. Mafing Caught In Ensilage Cutter

August Mafing who is employed on the L. G. Bruder farm west of Mokena, had a narrow escape from death Tuesday while engaged in filling a silo. So close was his clothing caught in the ensilage cutter and before the machine could be stopped, all of his clothes with the exception of his shoes and socks were torn from his body. Luckily no bones were broken, but he was very badly bruised and cut.

What About Annexation?

Sometime ago an agitation was started by L. G. Bruder to have the Marti district school annexed to the Mokena village school territory, but nothing has ever come of the matter. The Marti school has been closed for a number of years and the windows and doors of the school building are now boarded up. Mr. Bruder is wondering why the school trustees of Frankfort are not doing something about having this district annexed. Let us hear from those interested.

Stepped on by Cow; Ankle Broken

Walter McGoveny, residing on a farm south of Mokena, figured in a rather peculiar accident last Friday night. He was alone on his place milking a cow when a horse running loose in the yard kicked the cow causing the cow to jump, throwing Mr. McGoveny and stepping on him breaking his right ankle. Being alone and helpless Mr. McGoveny called for help. Luckily his calls for help were heard by J. C. Nielsen and Nick Geuther at Mokena. They came to his aid. A doctor was called and after giving Mr. McGoveny first aid treatment took him to the hospital in Joliet. The break was found to be a bad one and the patient will be laid up for some time.

Only Moonstruck

Last Thursday August Hentsch thought his neighbor Henry Schweser was dead and asked the local police office to investigate. Not having seen Schweser for several days Hentsch went over to his house and looking in the window saw Schweser lying on a bed. The oil tank from an oil stove had been knocked on the floor and the oil had run out on the floor. After calling Officer John Frisch the two entered and Mr. Hentsch says on searching found 8 pints of moonshine in the room. It is understood that Schweser got his supply from Joliet and other nearby towns. Mr. Hentsch feels that Schweser put the whole neighborhood in danger for had the oil caught fire, the building as well as Schweser himself might have been burned.

Eastern Will Co., Organizes Against Lawless Hunters

The farmers and also business men of Frankfort and Green Garden townships have organized the "Eastern Will County Game Protective Association" with the following officers:

President, A.H. Krusemark, Secretary, Edward Warning, Treasurer, Alfred Zechlin.

The new organization is organized to protect game in this section, especially pheasants, against the lawless hunters. This organization will also work in conjunction with the Isaac Walton League and will be given assistance from that League. In the meantime the state Game and Conservation Commission has been asked to appoint two game wardens for this section. Walter Pfaff of Frankfort is slated as one of the appointees, the other not having been decided on as yet.

Every farmer in the jurisdiction of the Association can become a member without paying any dues, the only condition being that he will put up a sign to be furnished by the Association that he is a member of this Association and that he will not permit anyone to hunt on his premises without a written permit. No oral agreements will be recognized. This does not mean that a farmer should exclude everyone from hunting on his farm. He can allow any friend or relative to hunt but must give them a written permission to do so.

Thus far a large number of farmers have signed applications for membership in the new organization. President Krusemark says that the object of the Association is to protect what local game there is against the ruthless hunter and that all violations will be vigorously prosecuted.

The organization is aiming to prevent the repetition of lawless hunting experienced last year when hunters from Chicago Heights, Chicago and even Gary, came in this section and killed domestic fowls. One farmer reported that a hunter shot two of his finest turkeys being under the impression they were prairie chickens.

The new organization is something new in its particular field but from the interest being taken in it, it will no doubt be a big success.

When any violation takes place on any member's farm, such member is to call up the local game warden and the case will be taken care of.

No Chemical Truck For Mokena

From present indications Mokena will not have a chemical fire truck after all. After $1900 had been subscribed, two factions sprung up, one favoring a Ford truck, the other wanting a more expensive and larger outfit. To settle the question a public meeting was held a week ago Saturday and vote taken, resulting in favor of a Reo truck for $3185. A purchasing committee was appointed and here the matter rests. No one wants to go ahead as there is not enough money on hand and no one wants to take the responsibility for the debt that would have to be incurred if a Reo is purchased.

The Volunteer Fire Department members will not have anything further to do with the matter it is said. The contention is that the purchasing committee should have been instructed to buy an apparatus for which there was enough money subscribed for. In the mean time while the scrap is on, Mokena is without any better fire protection than it had the past 25 years. Lack of co-operation is the trouble at the bottom of all local difficulties.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN CLINIC
Dr. John Mitchell will conduct a free clinic for crippled children and adults in the Public Health Council rooms, Auditorium Building, Joliet. Wednesday, October 20th, between the hours of 8:30 and 12:00 a. m.

SHORTENS NAME TO BALCH
C. H. Balchowsky, former well known Frankfort business man, now engaged in the real estate and insurance business in Chicago, has shortened his name to Balch.

Former M. E. Pastor Visits Mokena After 44 Years; Finds Church History on Slab

Along about in 1882 the M. E. conference sent a young energetic student pastor to serve the Mokena charge also Goodings Grove and what was known as the "English Settlement" now part of Orland.

The Mokena church at that time boasted a parsonage which is now the residence of Mrs. Mary B. Moriarty. The young pastor's name was Rev. J. R. Woodcock. This was his first charge. He was kept very busy with his three charges, in fact his activities were especially noticeable in Goodings Grove where he supervised the building of a new church, the first experience of this kind that he ever had.

As is the lot of the average M. E. pastor, Rev. Woodcock was assigned to other charges and in a few years got out of touch with the Mokena territory. Nothing was seen or heard of him for years.

One day last week while Rev. Mr. Woodcock was visiting at the J. R. Hobbs home in Joliet he got to talking about his first charge at Mokena and Mr. Hobbs drove him out in his auto to look over the old field. Rev. Mr. Woodcock found decided change in 44 years. Many of his old members of the congregations of his three charges have passed to the Great Beyond, of which he often spoke to them, but the Lord has spared a few of the old time members and friends. The pastor managed to get in touch with a number of them and delighted to talk over the days of long ago in a reminiscent mood. Mrs. Nancy Hatch of Mokena is one of the old friends of the pastor and he called on her while here.

About one of the first things he did when he came to Mokena was to visit the old church and when he entered the church he looked for a marble topped communion table and removing the marble top he saw the old familiar handwriting on the bottom of the slab setting forth a brief bit of the history of the Mokena M. E. church giving the date of its dedication as December 1867. In addition the name of the pastor and the District Superintendent is given. This is the only bit of history that has been found of the beginning of the church. This inscription was on the bottom of the slab 44 years ago when Rev. Mr. Woodcock was pastor of the church and is as eligible now as then.

Rev. Mr. Woodcock also visited the "English Settlement" in Orland but met no one whom he knew. He also missed seeing the "Settlement" church which merged with the Orland M. E. church some years ago.

Rev. Mr. Woodcock looked up a number of members of the old Cooper family who were warm friends of his during his pastorate here. He also inquired the whereabouts of the McGregors, Beagley's, Harwood's and Vaughn's. He also inquired of old brother Grange. The latter passed away last spring. The Arthur Jones family of Goodings Grove were also members of his first charge there. This family is now living in Canada.

Rev. Mr. Woodcock is now located at Orland, California. Both he and his wife came east for a visit. Mrs. Woodcock is now in Rochester, New York attending the National Convention of the National Society of the Woman's Home Missions of the M. E. church. She is very active as the General Secretary of the Junior Department of the society.

Tinley Park To Build $17,000 Concrete Street

Tinley Park is assured a new $17,000 concrete street. Last week the village board voted favorably on the matter which was started by a number of citizens residing on Church St. The proposed improvement will call for concreting approximately 1450 feet of street surface, (running feet) 25 feet wide with concrete curbing. Sewer, catch basins, etc., are all included in the work to be done which is to cost approximately $17,000 according to the engineers estimate. The next step is to get the assessment roll prepared and approved by the court. Bids for the job have not been let, and it will be impossible to start work on the project this fall, so nothing can be done on the actual construction work until next spring. The citizens residing along this street conceived the street paving idea themselves and after taking up the matter with the village board decided to get full information on the matter which they did and which lead into the organization of a local board of improvements. All of the proposed street improvement work is to be paid by special assessment spread over a period of 10 years.

COLLECT $206 FOR MISSIONS

The annual Mission Festival held at the St. John Evangelical church at Mokena last Sunday morning was a record breaker in point of the amount collected for Missions, the morning offering netting $206. This is the largest Mission offering ever received in Mokena, it is said.

Once Phantom City of Alpine May Become A Reality

Alpine, Mokena's little neglected neighbor to the northeast is beginning to feel that it is to have a place in the sun one of these fine days as a result of the real estate activities of the Bartlett Realty Company who now have six surveyors laying out into lots and streets a 900 acre tract of land. A real estate office is to be erected soon on this property. It is said that if the project goes over big, the Wabash will extend its suburban service to Alpine. It is said that the much talked of Southwest highway is to build thru that section up to the county line and as soon as this is done all the Alpine territory will be quickly developed. Farm lands will greatly increase in value.

The present boom takes us back some 20 or 25 years in Alpine's history. That time some real estate promoters conceived the idea of making a young city of Alpine. Sixteen hundred lots were laid out and a big boom launched. The Wabash ran special excursion trains on Sunday and hundreds of people bought lots. To make the boom look like the real thing, a phantom electric interurban line supposed to "What can be done to make a town out of Mokena?" This question was put to the editor of The News-Bulletin the other day by a Mokena business man. Well folks, there are a thousand different things that can be done to make this a live wire village, but the editor would like to hear from some of our public spirited citizens as to what in their opinion would be instrumental in bringing the desired condition about.

In order to get some live ideas on the subject, The News-Bulletin will pay a cash prize of $2 for the best suggestion sent in. The editor will select, what in his opinion is a most impartial and practical idea and will publish same with a view of ascertaining the News-Bulletin readers approval of the plan. All other suggestions not winning the cash prize, will be published and given honorable mention. Send in your contributions so we can get busy on them.

CREEK IS PRIVATE PROPERTY

Some time ago the question was raised whether a person would be guilty of trespassing if he went on a fishing trip along Hickory Creek or any other creek which flows thru farm land whose owners have forbidden trespassing. Upon inquiry at the Will County sheriff's office, the editor has been advised that as a creek is not a navigable stream it is part of the farm thru which it flows and as such is private property and is subject to the trespass law. A river is considered a navigable stream and its banks as well as the stream itself is state property and therefore is public property from which no citizen can be debarred if engaged in legitimate fishing or hunting.

Vitaphone Steadily Forging Ahead

The influx, during the last week of new shows, some of them with the endorsement of New York on them and others making their first bid for favor in this city, had no perceptible ill-effect on the interest in Vitaphone and John Barrymore's new production "Don Juan", the programme Warner Bros. are presenting at McVickers. This bill keeps apace of the so-called legitimate theatre and steadily forges ahead of most of the so-called movies.

Beginning its fifth week, this dual show remains what it was the night it opened, namely, one of the greatest inventions since the telephone and the most revolutionizing development in the history of the theatre.

That the huge success of Vitaphone, scientifically, musically and historically, has penetrated to the farthest reaches of the four corners of the country, is at once evident in the hundreds of requests that have poured into McVickers for information on this new "screen with a voice". The letters, literally stacks of them in every mail, come from men and women in every walk of life. The commonest query is for information on Vitaphone mechanism with a detailed description of how, why and what, etc. To these queries, there is but one answer, set up by Warner Bros., themselves, and that is: No!

While Vitaphone is thoroughly protected by patents granted to the Bell Telephone Laboratories, makers and inventors of Vitaphone, the Warners permit nobody to see the delicate mechanism that produces in lifelike singing and musical screen. Nobody is permitted "back stage", a liberty granted the curious which all but killed the illusion of the legitimate theatre.

The purely technical aspects of Vitaphone and its principles of coordinating sound and action will ever remain a secret so far as the public is concerned, a policy which the Warner Bros. established at the outset and which will ever remain in force.

Meanwhile thousands crowd into McVickers and marvel at the "screen with a voice."

White Store, Joliet, Selling Out Former Balchowsky Stock

The White Store, 405-407 Cass Street, Joliet, is now selling at a big sale the stock purchased from the former B. Balchowsky and Sons Department store of Frankfort. All of the stock on sale is being offered for fifty cents on the dollar. The Frankfort store was in business for a period of 49 years with marked success and very few stores of its kind are found in the average country towns.

Mr. Cohn, manager of The White store invites all the residents of this section to attend this sale and take advantage of the many money saving bargains offered. For more particulars read the White Store adv. on the back page of this issue.

TINLEY DEFEATS MOKENA 30-0

Last Sunday the Tinley Park and Mokena football teams played a hot football game at Schiek's diamond, Tinley defeating Mokena 30-0.

Hit at Church Prejudice Policy

The Mission Festival service at the St. John Evangelical church at Mokena last Sunday night were exceptional, in as much that for the first time in the history of church circles in Mokena, pastors from other denominations occupied the pulpit.

Rev. Glen T. Beaty, pastor of the Mokena M. E. Church occupied the pulpit and spoke on Home Mission work.

Rev. Forrest Fields of the Tinley Park M. E. church also took part in the services.

Rev. G. Gerhold, pastor of the Frankfort Evangelical church spoke on Foreign Missions, and gave a graphic outline of the world's work in this line.

It surely is very gratifying to the average layman to see church prejudice being done away with. Only too often we see the sorry spectacle of churches fighting each other and yet they preach a loving Christ. Oh, Consistency where art thou?

Rev. W. J. Cramer, pastor of the St. John Evangelical church made a very enlightening remark at the close of the service by saying he was not a narrow minded man, that there is only one Christ, one heaven, one life, so why not all work together in harmony and do away with church bickering?

From all indications this means a stronger bond of fellowship among the Protestant churches than ever before.

Order Your Xmas Gift From Worthy Invalid Mother

There is a brave little invalid mother in Mokena, who tho confined to her bed for five years, yet is doing the very best she can to clothe and educate her little son by specializing in making waxed water lilies, also doing fancy work and sewing by hand.

The heroic little mother is Mrs. Florence Mahoney. She is worthy of all the aid that can be given her by way of orders for the kind of work she is doing. The waxed water lilies come in different colors and are works of art which make a very beautiful buffet or dining table decoration and pleasing Christmas gift. It is anyone's time to see these pretty lilies and to place orders for them.

Tinley Fire Dept. To Give Big Hop

The Tinley Park Volunteer Fire Department is making plans for a big dance to be held by them at the Saenger Hall at Tinley on the night of November 25th this being Thanksgiving night. Music will be furnished by the Beatty orchestra. The proceeds of the dance are to be used in paying off the remaining indebtedness on the chemical fire truck.

FRONT STREET BEING PATCHED

Mokena's Front Street which has been a mass of chuck holes and ruts all summer is undergoing extensive patching with asphalt tar and sand. August Hentsch and Clinton Kraus are in charge of the job.

THIS WOMAN'S BATTLE

Wins Against Ill Health

"At times I was hardly able to do my housework," writes Mrs. Margaret Wallace of 1547 Safford Ave., Columbus, Ohio. How many women have found themselves in this same condition! How many women have fought bravely on day after day, cooking, washing, ironing, doing the dishes, and keeping the house clean, when they were in a weakened condition and had not sufficient strength to perform these duties easily and properly!

When Mrs. Wallace was experiencing great difficulty in carrying on the daily tasks, a friend advised her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she gave it a fair trial. "I just can't give enough thanks to it," she writes. "Now I can eat anything at all and I am feeling better than I have for years. I shall never be without your medicine again."

A woman who is fighting for her health and her family's happiness is a valiant soldier. She wages her battle in her own kitchen. She has no thrilling bugles to cheer her on, no waving banners.

Many other women tell us, as Mrs. Wallace did, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was their faithful ally in the struggle for better health.

Keep Eliminative System Active

Good Health Requires Good Elimination.

ONE can't feel well when there is a retention of poisonous waste in the blood. This is called a toxic condition, and is apt to make one tired, dull and languid. Other symptoms are sometimes toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many people have learned the value of Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, when the kidneys seem functionally inactive. Everywhere one finds enthusiastic Doan's users. As your neighbor!

Vainly she was fighting now, not to strike him or to escape, but to get her breath. She tried to cry out again, but this time no sound came from between her gasping lips.

Again he laughed, and as he laughed, he heard the door open. Was it the wind? He turned, still holding her in his arms.

In the open door stood Pierrot.

During that terrible space which followed an eternity of time rolled slowly through the little cabin on the Gray Loom—that eternity which lies somewhere between life and death and which is sometimes meted out to a human life in seconds instead of eons.

ened. His eyes were wide for a moment—wide and staring. He made no sound. She could not see his lips move. And then he fell toward her, so that McTaggart's body was free. Blindly and with an agony that gave no evidence in cry or word she flung herself down beside him. He was dead.

How long Nepeese lay there, how long she waited for Pierrot to move, to open his eyes, to breathe, she would never know. In that time McTaggart rose to his feet and stood leaning against the wall, the pistol in his hand, his brain clearing itself as he saw his final triumph. His work did not frighten him. Even in that tragic moment as he stood against the wall, his defense—if it ever came to a defense—framed itself in his mind. Pierrot had murderously assaulted him—without cause. In self-defense he had killed him. Was he not the Factor of Lac Bain? Would not the Company and the law believe his word before that of this girl? His brain leaped with the old exultation. It would never come to that—to a betrayal of this struggle and death in the cabin—after he had finished with her! She would not be known for all time as La Bete Noire. No, they would bury Pierrot, and she would return to Lac Bain with him. If she had been helpless before, she was ten times more helpless now. She would never tell of what had happened in the cabin.

He forgot the presence of death as he looked at her, bowed over her father so that her hair covered him like a silken shroud.

He replaced the pistol in its holster and drew a deep breath into his lungs. He was still a little unsteady on his feet, but his face was again the face of a devil. He took a step, and it was then there came a sound to rouse the girl. In the shadow of the farther wall Baree had struggled to his haunches, and now he growled.

Slowly Nepeese lifted her head. A power which she could not resist drew her eyes up until she was looking into the face of Bush McTaggart. She had almost lost consciousness of his presence; her senses were cold and deadened—it was as if her own heart had stopped beating along with Pierrot's.

What she saw in the Factor's face dragged her out of the numbness of her grief back to the abyss of her own peril. He was standing over her. In his face there was no pity, nothing of horror at what he had done—only an insane exultation as he looked—not at Pierrot's dead body, but at her. He put out a hand, and it rested on her head. She felt his thick fingers crumpling her hair, and his eyes blazed like embers of fire behind watery films. She struggled to rise, but with his hands at her hair he held her down.

"Great God!" she breathed. She uttered no other words, no plea for mercy, no other sound but a dry, hopeless sob. In that moment neither of them heard or saw Baree. Twice in crossing the cabin his hind-quarters had sagged to the floor. Now he was close to McTaggart. He wanted to give a single lunge to the man-brute's back and snap his thick neck as he would have broken a car-bone-bone. But he had no strength. He was still partially paralyzed from his forehead back. But his jaws were like iron, and they closed savagely on McTaggart's leg.

With a yell of pain the Factor released his hold on the Willow, and she staggered to her feet. For a precious half-minute she was free, and as the Factor kicked and struck to loose Baree's hold, she ran to the cabin door and out into the day. The cold air struck her face; it filled her lungs with new strength; and without thought of where hope might lie she ran through the snow into the forest.

McTaggart appeared at the door just in time to see her disappear. His leg was torn where Baree had fastened his fangs, but he felt no pain as he ran in pursuit of the girl. She could not go far. An exultant cry, inhuman as the cry of a beast, came in a great breath from his gaping mouth as he saw that she was staggering weakly as she fled. He was halfway to the edge of the forest when Baree dragged himself over the threshold. His jaws were bleeding where McTaggart had kicked him again and again before his fangs gave way. Halfway between his ears was a seared spot, as if a red-hot poker had been laid there for an instant. This was where McTaggart's bullet had gone. A quarter of an inch deeper, and it would have meant death. As it was, it had been like the blow of a heavy club, paralyzing his senses and sending him limp and unconscious against the wall. He could move on his feet now without falling, and slowly he followed in the tracks of the man and the girl.

As she ran, Nepeese's mind became all at once clear and reasoning. She turned into the narrow trail over which McTaggart had followed her once before, but just before reaching the chasm, she swung sharply to the right. She could see McTaggart. He was not running fast, but was gaining steadily, as if enjoying the sight of her helplessness, as he had enjoyed it in another way on that other day. Two hundred yards below the deep pool into which she had pushed the Factor—just beyond the shallows out of which he had dragged himself to safety—was the beginning of Blue Feather's gorge. An appalling thing was shaping itself in her mind as she ran to it—a thing that with each gasping breath she drew became more and more a great and glorious hope. At last she reached it and looked down.

And as she looked, there whispered out of her soul and trembled on her lips the swan-song of her mother's people.

Our fathers—come!
Come from out of the valley.
Guide us—for today we die,
And the winds whisper of death!

She raised her arms. Against the white wilderness beyond the chasm she stood tall and slim. Fifty yards behind her the Factor from Lac Bain stopped suddenly in his tracks. "Ah," he murmured. "Is she not wonderful?" And behind McTaggart, coming faster and faster, was Baree.

Again the Willow looked down. She was at the edge, for she had no fear in this hour. Many times she had clung to Pierrot's hand as she looked over. Down there no one could fall and live. Fifty feet below her the water which never froze was smashing itself into froth among the rocks. It was deep and black and terrible, for between the narrow rock walls the sun did not reach it. The roar of it filled the Willow's ears.

She turned and faced McTaggart. Even then he did not guess, but came toward her again, his arms stretched out ahead of him. Fifty yards! It was not much, and shortening swiftly.

Once more the Willow's lips moved. After all, it is the mother soul that gives us faith to meet eternity—and it was to the spirit of her mother that the Willow called in the hour of death. With the call on her lips she plunged into the abyss, her wind-whipped hair clinging to her in a glistening shroud.

Chapter XII

A moment later the Factor from Lac Bain stood at the edge of the chasm. His voice had called out in a hoarse bellow—a wild cry of disbelief and horror that had formed the Willow's name as she disappeared. He looked down, clutching his huge red hands and staring in ghastly suspense at the boiling water and black rocks far below. There was nothing there now—no sign of her, no last flash of her pale face and streaming hair in the white foam. And she had done that—to save herself from him!

The soul of the man-beast turned sick within him, so sick that he staggered back, his vision blinded and his legs tottering under him. He had killed Pierrot, and it had been a triumph; all his life he had played the part of the brute with a stoicism and cruelty that had known no shock—nothing like that overwhelmed him now, numbing him to the marrow of his bones until he stood like one paralyzed. He did not see Baree. He did not hear the dog's whining cries at the edge of the chasm. For a few moments the world turned black for him; and then, dragging himself out of his stupor, he ran frantically along the edge of the gorge, looking down wherever his eyes could reach the water, striving for a glimpse of her. At last it grew too deep. There was no hope. She was gone—and she had faced that to escape him!

An Intelligent Interest

The rector of a country parish was showing one of his parishioners round his garden. He paused in front of the garden wall, into which had been built a huge boulder of granite, differing obviously from the red sandstone blocks that composed the rest of the wall. "That," he said, indicating the granite boulder, "came down in a glacier." The visitor considered the object with much attention and then said thoughtfully: "Would that be before the war?"—Manchester Guardian.

Tanlac Responds to Call For Relief From Pain

Amazing Improvement in Miss Haberbusch's Health Surprises Friends. Boils and Other Troubles Caused by Nervousness and Upset Stomach Relieved. Gains 15 Pounds

Thousands of Illinois men and women suffering from nervousness and run-down condition may discover the surest way to get quick relief in the experience of Miss Mary Haberbusch, 2821 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, whose marvelous recovery from a long illness of several years is a story of relief.

"If you are tired and fagged-out; if your stomach rebels at taking food and you spend miserable hours doubled up with pain caused by indigestion; if you do not sleep soundly and dizzy spells attack you when you stoop over; if you are losing weight and feel old—watch out!

"Three years ago I was in a run-down weakened condition," says Miss Haberbusch. "Suffering from indigestion, being unable to sleep and getting up in the morning after a long night of tossing and turning, tired, sapped my strength. Poisons swept through my system and bad blood caused boils that pained terribly and compelled me to carry my arm in a sling. "I sought relief but failed. Then a friend told me of Tanlac. The first bottle gave me an appetite. Indigestion and boils gradually disappeared. I began to sleep better and arise refreshed. Soon my nerves calmed down. I took on weight. Thanks to Tanlac. It restored my health."

Thousands have found happy relief from pain and gained new strength by taking Tanlac. It usually builds up the body, wipes out causes of poisons. Heed their advice. Keep well, keep youth and health—take Tanlac.

Get your first bottle of Tanlac from your druggist today! Over 40 million bottles sold.

NEW LENNOX

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. church met in the church parlors last Wednesday afternoon to plan for the bazaar which will be held the early part of this fall.

The Chairman of the entertainment committee of the Home Improvement Club, Mrs. James Owen, announces a very fine program will be given at the annual Club party in the Grange Hall, Oct. 20th and urges all members and their families to be present. Also refreshments will be served.

The P. T. A. will hold their regular meeting in the school house Tuesday evening Oct. 19th. Every one is welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Severit have moved into their new home on Pine and Second.

Several new homes are under construction here, but on account of the rainy weather, work on them is being delayed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Storm entertained at a party in their home last Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. Isaac Gillett's birthday. Mr. Gillett is visiting here from Cle Elum, Washington.

Rev. and Mrs. Galloway are moving into the Methodist parsonage this week.

Mattei's musical program which was given in the Methodist church last week was very largely attended. The following was the program:

Mrs. Maud Ayres rendered two pleasing piano solos. "Alkahest", "Primrose", "A Night In June" and "O Marie" were played by Mattei's Girl's Saxophone quartet.

"Adoration" by Boraski and "In The Garden of My Dreams" were played on the violin by Joseph Mattei, accompanied at the piano by Josephine Mattei. Mrs. Evans sang a solo. Saxophone solo by Viola Ward, "Pale Moon" by Nell Humphrey. These last named also played 2 saxophone duets, "Drifting" and "Dreaming" and "Hello-Ahoha".

G. Mattei played a solo "Perimids" "Tannhauser", "Memories of Stephen Foster" and "Red, White and Blue" were played by the girls quartet accompanied by G. Mattei.

Another program of this nature will be given again sometime next month. These concerts are given to help pay for the new piano for the New Lennox school.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bethel are expecting to move into their new home the latter part of this week.

Geo. Osma is erecting a new filling station on the Lincoln Highway west.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson are moving into the Chas. Nelson residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer are moving into the Sid Wason home, recently vacated by Axel Peterson.

Dean Gillett and family are moving into the Hinton house.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Kruspe motored to Richmond, Ind., to visit relatives.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Storm in Silver Cross hospital.

Most Difficult Things in Life.
A Danish paper recently asked the readers to state what is the hardest thing in the world to do. It received many more replies than it had anticipated, some of which are as follows: To be a toe dancer if you weigh 200 pounds, to get back borrowed books, to trim one's nails while wearing boxing gloves. Some of the readers took the question seriously and answered it seriously. One replied that to live without telling a lie was the most difficult of all.

ORLAND

St. Michael's two-night bazaar was a great success. The men's dinner, served under the direction of Mr. A. Ludwig, was too perfect for criticism. Nothing untoward occurred. The service was perfect. The food was excellent. But one catastrophe marred its faultlessness. The peas got lost. Later, however, they were discovered, safe and sound, at the bottom of a milk bowl.

Two army tents from Fort Sheridan were generously lent to house the booths.

Rev. Wm. A. Gorey expressed sincere gratitude to his parishioners and friends for their most generous cooperation.

The Ford Coupe went to Lloyd Cowan of Palos, the radio to Mr. L. Doctor of Orland, the boudoir doll to Mr. Thos. Lennon of Chicago, a luncheon set to Mr. Sprout of Beverley Hills and the buffet set to Mr. P. Homering.

Raymond son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Jungles is in a Chicago hospital recovering from a recent operation for appendicitis.

An announcement of the marriage of Miss Augusta Steffen to Mr. Cure has been made.

Friday Oct. 22. "The Knockout" Milton Sills in a drama of the north woods.

This week the Women's Guild Society is putting water connections into the church basement. This will be ready for the annual bazaar and supper on Thursday the 14th of October.

Work will soon begin on the installation of an up-to-date bath room at the parsonage.

Reception of members will take place on Sunday morning October 24th. Those desiring to unite with the local Methodist church please see the pastor.

Mr. John Loeb is much improved from his recent illness and attended the morning service at the Methodist church.

The T. H. Davidson family are moving back to town again.

Sunday October 17th. Bible school at 9:30. There was a large increase in attendance at the first session of the school for the new conference year.

Morning worship at 10:30. If you neglect worship you are neglecting one of your greatest privileges. Worship means the cultivation of the higher life—which is impossible without it. What are you doing to keep yourself spiritually fitted for life?

Evening service 7:15 to 7:30 a piano recital. Come and enjoy it. The discussion centering around the central theme, "How To Know God" will be continued. The pastor will lead. Last Sunday evening we had a most interesting session and many took part.

Trade among Friends

No matter what some folks say to the contrary, there certainly is a lot of sentiment in business. Friendship, for instance, makes more satisfactory sales than all the cleverness and argument in the world.

You like to trade at a certain store—not because its counters are arranged in a scientific way, but because the folks who serve you are always friendly and helpful.

Just that very thing—FRIENDLY SERVICE—is the power that draws people together into communities like this, where everybody can enjoy the many benefits of neighborly cooperation.

And FRIENDLY SERVICE is the sentimental reason why you find it very much to your advantage to trade with our advertisers—to buy where you feel at home, where your friends will see that you are well satisfied.

the Marley church on Nov. 5th, afternoon and evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Sidney Smith entertained the Marley Home Improvement Club Tuesday afternoon. Twelve members were present. After the business meeting refreshments were served.

There will be a movie given Friday evening at the church entitled "Air Mail" and a comedy, "Sweet Marie". October 22nd is the date.

Mrs. John Handorf Jr., who underwent an operation at Silver Cross hospital for the removal of a goitre, is improving.

Mrs. Wm. Moore returned home last week after a few months visit with relatives in Montana and a trip to Yellowstone Park.

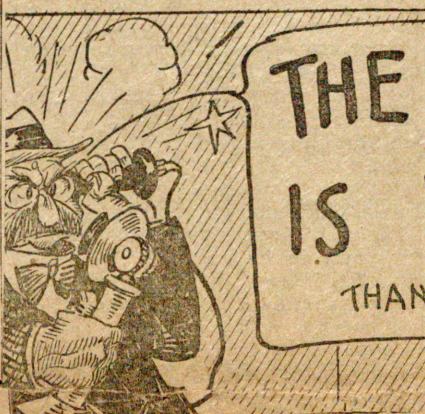

The regular monthly meeting of the Missionary society will be held October 21st, in the home of Mrs. Fred Blodgett. Dinner will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. David Storm of Haven, Kansas, are visiting at the home of John Storm.

Our National Efficiency

PRESENT cost levels are much higher than those of ten years ago, so that each additional telephone installed now increases the average investment per telephone. To maintain the service the company's revenues must keep pace with this condition.

VISITORS to the United States from other countries marvel at the efficiency of our great industrial organizations, of the skill with which great crowds are handled on occasions of public interest, and a score of other things in which the ability of American organizers to handle things in great volume is shown.

The principal tool or instrument behind these seeming marvels is usually found to be the telephone. Take telephone service out of our great factories, our great stores, our great expositions and congresses, and confusion will be likely to replace the smoothness and efficiency at which the visitors marvel. Studies extending over half a century have brought the telephone service in America to its present efficiency. While this is most strikingly shown in connection with big affairs and great emergencies, it is likewise to be found in the ordinary service, which is at the call of any and every telephone subscriber.

Lesson for October 17

MOSES HONORED IN HIS DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Deut. 34:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Moses Sees the Promised Land.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Death of Moses.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Lessons from the Life of Moses.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the World Owes Moses.

I. Moses Views the Promised Land From Mount Pisgah (vv. 1-4).

At the Lord's bidding Moses ascended the mountain from which he got a view of the promised land. He obeyed, though he knew that he was to die there (Deut. 32:50). He greatly desired to go into the land (Deut. 3:25), but graciously submitted to the will of the Lord. Though he was not permitted to enter the land, God gave him a view in its fullest dimensions of the land which was to be the inheritance of the people which he had delivered and led for forty years. The reason given by the Lord for refusing an entrance into the land was Moses' failure to sanctify the Lord at Meribah (Deut. 32:51, cf. Num. 20:1-13). This was too glaring a sin for the Lord to pass over, though Moses had served Him faithfully for many years.

II. The Death and Burial of Moses (vv. 5-9).

1. His death (v. 5).

Though he died in the vigor of manhood, his work was done. He did not die before his time. God put him into the world for a purpose, and as soon as that work was done He called him home. Though Moses was a great man he was not exempt from death.

2. The burial of Moses (v. 6).

God buried him. Most likely this service was performed by the angels. Likely this is the time and circumstance when the devil contended with Michael, the archangel, over the body of Moses (Jude 9).

3. The time of mourning for Moses (v. 8).

They mourned for thirty days. It is not wrong to lay away earthly friends even with tears, but as Christians we should not mourn as those who have no hope. Indeed, it is much better to express our appreciation and love for our friends by showing the proper courtesy and respect while they are alive than to mourn over them when they are dead.

III. The Successor of Moses (v. 9).

Joshua, who had been the minister of Moses during all the years of the wilderness journey, now became the military leader of the Israelites. That Joshua was a fit man as a leader of the Israelites is seen.

1. By the fact that he was full of the spirit of wisdom.

While the Lord is not dependent upon human wisdom, He does select as His representatives men whom He has endowed with the proper wisdom.

2. He was divinely ordained for the work at the hand of Moses, "for Moses had laid his hands upon him."

This he had done at the command of God (Num. 27:18-21).

3. The people owned him as their leader. "The children of Israel hearkened unto him, and did as the Lord commanded Moses."

In order for successful leadership a ruler must have the individual affection and allegiance of the people.

IV. Encomium Upon Moses (vv. 10-12).

In this eulogy Moses is given a place at the head of the Old Testament prophets. With the exception of the Greater Prophet (Deut. 18:15-18), of whom Moses was a type, he stands as the greatest prophet of Israel.

1. He was great because of his intimacy with God (v. 10), "whom the Lord knew face to face."

2. He was great in that he gave to the world a code of laws unequalled in the world's history.

3. He was great as a general in that he liberated the Israelitish nation from the oppression of the greatest nation of the earth.

4. He was great because he led two or three million Israelites through the desert for forty years.

5. He was great because he gave to us in the book of Deuteronomy three orations which, according to the judgment of competent critics, stand at the head of the world's literature.

Faith

What a wonderful ship is faith. She discovers worlds beyond anything found by Columbus. What a freight she carries. Riches beyond the treasures of Solomon's ships of gold. To what a glorious realm she transports.—W. L. Watkinson.

Looking Into the Future

When we look into the long avenue of the future and see the good there is for each one of us to do, we realize after all what a beautiful thing it is to work, and to live to be happy.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)
A good conscience, a good table, good digestion and a good wife—what better hast thou in thy store, O heaven!

CASSEROLE DISHES

The nice thing about casserole is it may be as pretty as one can afford to buy and may be used in countless ways as a serving and baking dish and then be an ornament to the table when you are ready to serve.

Buttered Apples en Casserole.—Peel, core and cut into eighths ten good flavored apples, arranging in the casserole. Add one-half cupful of sugar, or honey, and one teaspoonful of vanilla if the apple flavor is not pronounced, or a grating of lemon peel. Cover the top with bits of butter, cover and bake until the apples are tender. Decorate with marshmallows and brown. Serve with cream.

Chicken en Casserole.—Cut two chickens as for frying, remove the meat from the bones and put the bones into a kettle with one quart of cold water with salt and pepper to season, adding a clove of garlic and a stalk of celery. Simmer until reduced to half the amount. Fry the chicken and arrange in a casserole; over this put one cupful of cooked rice, pour in the stock and cook an hour and one-half.

Duck en Casserole.—Cut one cooked duck into pieces. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and fry the duck in it. Sprinkle with one tablespoonful of flour and brown. Add two cupfuls of stock, one chopped onion, a little parsley, a bayleaf, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, the same of meat extract and currant jelly, with a few drops of kitchen bouquet.

Cauliflower au Gratin.—Cook a large cauliflower until tender in boiling salted water, then drain. Divide in flowerets and place in a well buttered casserole. Cover with well seasoned white sauce, sprinkle with one-half cupful of bread crumbs and one-half cupful of grated cheese well mixed and brown in the oven.

Greek Stew.—Take one cupful of lamb cut into small pieces, one chopped onion and four tablespoonfuls of fat; cook all together until the meat is partly brown; then add three cupfuls of string beans, two cupfuls of canned tomato, and two cupfuls of diced potatoes. Cover in a casserole and cook 45 minutes.

Kidneys and Vermicelli.—Split and skin eight or ten sheep's kidneys and cut into slices, saving a few uncut for the top. Cook a few minutes in butter, add two sliced onions and fry. Add a tablespoonful of stock or water, salt and pepper to taste and put to stew in a casserole until tender. Place cooked vermicelli over the top of the dish, garnish with whole kidneys, reheat and serve very hot from the casserole.

Prune Butter.—Take one pound of washed prunes, soak overnight in water to cover, then cook slowly in the same water until tender. Remove the pits and mash through a colander, add one cupful of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cinnamon and a little grated orange peel. Cook until thick. Put into glasses and cover with paraffin.

Hints Worth Noting.
Nuts in the shell, which have become too brittle to crack without breaking, if treated to a bath of boiling water, will crack and seem like fresh nuts.

Keep the smallest bits of candle ends and put into a muslin bag. Use to polish the irons or keep the kitchen range bright.

If leaving an iron stove for any length of time grease it well all over with unsalted fat, to keep it from rusting.

A broom which is badly worn may be made to serve much longer if the stitching is ripped out below the top row. Trim the bottom and soak in soap suds, then dry thoroughly.

A bit of ginger added to doughnuts is said to keep them from soaking fat, but all other conditions for good doughnuts should be met. Fat-soaked doughnuts are wasteful of fat and indigestible to eat.

The amount of bacon to be used for seasoning may be lessened if it is put through the meat grinder before adding to the dish. It is thus more evenly mixed through the dish in this way. Stale bread put through the meat grinder, then browned in the oven, makes a fine breakfast cereal with milk. This is especially good for an invalid.

A run in silk hose, if not too long, may be taken back with a crochet hook. Old stockings cut round and round make fine rags for crocheted pillow tops. The silk hose with various colors are most attractive. The white ones may be dyed to get desired shades.

When making mayonnaise, if it curdles, beat another egg and drop the curdled mixture drop by drop into it, beating all the time; it will, if carefully done, blend well, then proceed to finish with more oil and lemon juice.

Lemons placed in the oven and heated hot will render their juice more freely.

FELT HAT STAGES COMEBACK; PARIS THINKS WELL OF PLAID

LIKE certain favorite players who perennially announce a "positive" last appearance, the felt hat is successfully staging another "farewell performance." But is it "farewell"? Not from present indications. Rather is the felt hat endearing itself to its audience even to a greater degree than heretofore, in that it is presenting an entirely new and varied program in which artful creased crowns and cunning rippling brims are playing leading roles.

Of course when it comes to dressy millinery for dressy occasions, the mode is very explicit in that regard, insisting on a more ornate and elaborate styling than we have been accustomed to for many seasons past.

If in Paris do as Parisians do, that is, choose any sort of material just so it is gay plaid. This vogue for plaid is sweeping through the entire of fashion's realm.

The picture portrays two unlike yet equally handsome versions of the plaid mode. Plaid worsted is given flattering treatment in the Paris-made two-piece frock to the right. In this instance the darker side of the plaid cloth is used for the skirt, the reverse giving a varied trimming for the blouse, which itself is made of beige kasha matched to the predominating tone in the plaid.

None other than a French stylist could contrive so intricate a fabric handling as is evidenced in the win-

Variety in Felt Hats.

For practical wear, youthful, novel and becoming types, such as the picture shows, are quite the proper thing.

There are points of outstanding interest in each of these models so carefully selected as representative of the mode. An evolution of the old-time cloche, but in softer effect, describes in a measure the first little hat. There is the inevitable crease in the soft crown and there is also the stylish trim of grosgrain ribbon.

Perforated felt gives us something new to think about. An effective patterning is worked out on the tall mod-some plaid silk frock shown here to the left. Manipulation of material is an outstanding bright light in the newer apparel creations. Elaborately styled yet simple in appearance to the eye, is a sentiment which prevails throughout all dress design.

The latest smart combination registers leather and plaided woolen, using the latter for the skirt, lining the gay leather coat with the plaid where it also gives an enlivening contrast in collar and cuffs to match.

Very popular is the fashion for skirt of plaid, either silk or wool, topped with a velvet jacket. Also one sees the black or navy velvet skirt designed in scalloped tiers, with which is worn a tunic or blouse of plaid taffeta.

Perfectly stunning velvet plaid two-piece frocks are appearing on avenue and boulevard with which are worn velvet hats in solid coloring, shirred, corded or stitched, the ensemble enhanced by a handsome fur neckpiece.

Costume ensembles are of the latest which use plaid for the one-piece ish crown of the fine velours shape shown to the left of this group.

Some crowns show the crease from right to left as instanced in the little hat shown to the right. Note that it is a very fine velours, and it is this quality-kind which is in demand this season.

Exploiting the latest slant-back draped crown is the girlish felt hat shown in the center. It is in Lanvin green with a grosgrain banding in the now-so-much-talked-of jungle green.

Again the soft brim is apparent in the model to the left below, and it is ribbon bound, this being a feature of so many of the fashionable felts.

One of the whims of fashion is for the hatband carried out in two or three tones. Felt hats often match shoes and handbags in their coloring.
